Why did Aliens Build the Pyramids?

beam contemporary 29 April – 21 May 2011

Coinciding with Melbourne Museum's Tutankhamen and the Golden Age of the Pharaohs mega-exhibition, Why Did Aliens Build the Pyramids? investigates alternative origins of one of Earth's most spectacular 'man-made' monuments. The sculptures, videos and digital collages comprising the exhibition delve into the reasons why heavenly bodies have bestowed such wondrous architecture upon our planet. Taking science fiction as New Age spiritual myth, Mutch documents contemporary consumerist approaches to the sacred, and the post-modern pastiche of religious symbols in sci-fi texts. Amidst the earnestness and monumentality of institutional approaches to ancient Egypt, Mutch presents a playful consideration of some of the alternative lineages of the Pyramids of ancient Egypt as they reverberate across popular culture, conspiracy theory and New Age spiritualism.

David Mutch's practice encompasses sculptural installation, video, photography and sound. His current work documents a search for secularly spiritual sites and experiences in contemporary urban environments. David completed a BA (Fine Art) at RMIT, Melbourne and has a forthcoming solo exhibition at Westspace, Melbourne. Recent solo exhibitions include Inverse Universe (2011) at Rearview, Collingwood and The Tourists (2010) at Seventh, Fitzroy. Group shows include Hans Arp If You Like Dada (2011) at ARTbeat, Melbourne & Morelocks, Molepeople... (2010) at Westspace, Melbourne. In 2009 he curated Last Days Polaroid Sale at Blindside, Melbourne and was a recipient of a City of Melbourne Young Artist Grant.
